

Industrial Electricity

The Industrial Electricity is a NCCER program that utilizes classroom instruction and lecture, individualized modules, and hands-on experience at job sites to provide the student with the knowledge to be a residential electrician, pre-journeyman, journeyman, electrical maintenance worker, or electrical technician. Graduates of the program will have a strong foundation in the basic principles of electricity, including motor generator principles; meters; testing equipment and instruments; blueprint reading and math; residential wiring; National Electric Code; industrial wiring/distribution; related electronics; and shop management and records.
